2. Write a Letter to a Friend

Write a letter to a friend about a book you read. Explain to your friend what the plot of the story is, but don't give away the ending. You should tell your friend about the main character, the setting (time and place of the story) and what kind of story it is. Be sure to tell your friend if they should read this book or not and explain why. Don't forget to use a letter format start with Dear ____ and end with a closing and your name. Your letter should be in at least two paragraphs and have at least eight sentences.

3. Character/Biography Report

Pick a character or person from one of the books you read. In the first paragraph include the title of book, the author, and what kind of book it is (biography, fiction – mystery etc.) In the second paragraph write a first sentence that states your opinion about the character or person. Support the statements with three examples from your book. In your last paragraph explain why this character or person is or is not a good example to follow.

4. The Story Grid: On a piece of paper make a grid of nine

|                              |                                |         |
|------------------------------|--------------------------------|---------|
| Setting(Time &Place) | Character                      | Problem |
| Event                        | Title AuthorStudent's Name | Event   |
| Event                        | Solution or Opinion            | Event   |

Make the grid the full size of the paper. Then fill in the squares as identified. Squares should include sentences and either designs or pictures. Opinion means give a rating for the book: good, fair, disliked etc.

5. Written report – Non-Fiction

The first paragraph should include:

- The title of the book underlined and author's name

In the second paragraph tell five facts you learned from the book.

In the third paragraph give a rating of the book and two reasons for this reason.
